jogashima-park.jp

Introduction

Jogashima Park covers large areas of Jogashima Island, located at the tip of the Miura Peninsula. Encounter the seasonal blooming of beach plants, Japanese cormorants' annual winter return, and magnificent views of Mt. Fuji from the observatories.

Japanese cormorants

Designated a natural monument by Kanagawa Prefecture, approximately 2,000 cormorants winter on Jogashima. Peek at the leisurely sunbathing birds from the Umiu Observatory.

Mt. Fuji

Two observatories within the park provide wonderfully unobstructed views. Weather permitting, you can see as far as the Boso Peninsula, towering Mt. Fuji and Izu Oshima Island.

Daffodils

Pine trees

Heralding the coming of spring, about 300,000 double-flowered daffodils start blooming at the end of January. Their rich, sweet scent embraces all who pass by. Black pine trees growing diagonally, due to the strong winds blowing from the sea, represent the amazing power of nature.

"Sanshiro" route (to the quay of Urari Marché Market)

(To Misaki)

Check out the 360-degree panoramic view of Jogashima here!

Awasaki

This rocky shore stretches along the east side of the island and has a white sandy beach comprised of seashell fragments perfect for seashell hunting!

Awasaki Lighthouse

Newly built in 2020, Awasaki Lighthouse makes a pair with Jogashima Lighthouse on the west side, and thus is recognized as a "lighthouse in love."

Picnic Plaza

Enjoy a picnic lunch and a stroll around the island, then round off your day by viewing the setting sun from one of the lighthouses.

Uminone Plaza

Lie down and relax on the grassy ground of this plaza. Its location on the hill offers a fantastic view of the Miura Peninsula.

Ryokuin Plaza

Strong sea breezes make these pine trees grow diagonally, creating comfortable shade and a perfect rest spot during a stroll.

Habitat of Japanese cormorants

From November through April every year, about 2,000 Japanese cormorants spend winter on the cliffs of Jogashima Park.

Umiu Observatory

The sight of a flock of Japanese cormorants is stunning from this perfect spot to observe them in their natural habitat. Look for a statue of the birds to guide you here.

Umanose Domon

An arch carved out of rock over time by waves, Umanose Domon is a popular photo spot. It is severely weathered, though, so please do not attempt to walk over the arch.

Nagatorosaki

On this extensive rocky shore, you can witness rare, sandwich-like strata. Enjoy exploring the shore, but watch out for the strong waves.

Jogashima Lighthouse

The white tiles on the exterior make a refreshing contrast with the blue sky and give a modern impression. This is a symbol of the island, rebuilt after the Great Kanto Earthquake in 1923.

Kaji no Saburo-yama Shrine

This shrine is located on a hill, and, weather permitting, provides a view of Mt. Fuji. It enshrines a skipper as a god, so some people visit here to pray for a good catch.

Jogashima "Sanshiro" Boat

This boat travels between Urari Marché Market in Misaki and Jogashima in 5 minutes. You can take your bike/rental bike aboard.

Tsunami Evacuation Stairs

Accommodates everyone, no matter what age and size, with handrails at different heights and several landings.

Monument of Kitahara Hakushu

Kitahara Hakushu, a renowned poet, once stayed in Miura City and created poems about Jogashima. A memorial hall next to the monument has his posthumous work, notebooks and more on display.

Jogashima Ohashi Bridge

Jogashima Ohashi Bridge connects Jogashima and the Miura Peninsula. You can go across the bridge by car, by bike and on foot. The view at sunset is a must-see.

Listed is just one example (total length of 4.3 km/about 2.7 miles) of the various trails. Please note that some parts of the trails may be inaccessible on occasion.
